

....2. Accident.

I am sure we can all recognize damage caused by accident because it is visible and we strongly urge our dealers and customers to inspect the trailer upon receipt of delivery for any damage caused by accident while being delivered to the dealer, or on the dealer's lot. Damage of this nature becomes the dealer's or customer's responsibility upon acceptance of delivery unless Airstream is notified and the damage is verified by the person making the delivery.

....3. Abuse.

We have seen many ten year old trailers that still looked like new inside and out. We have also seen trailers less than a year old that from their internal and external appearance were practically uninhabitable. Airstream cannot be held responsible for lack of care and/or improper maintenance.

....4. Exposure.

Not unlike a car, the steel parts of a trailer can and will rust if subjected to prolonged exposure to moisture, salt air or corrosive air-borne pollutants without repainting. Aluminum oxidizes when unprotected under similar conditions and refinery chemicals of a sulfurous nature are harmful to finishes if not washed off periodically. Extremely hot or direct sunlight will deteriorate rubber and fade curtains and upholstery. Conditions of this nature, although normal for the area, are beyond Airstream's control and become the responsibility of the owner.

One other type of exposure is that resulting from an accident, rain or plumbing leak. Although it is our obligation to correct a rain or plumbing leak it is the owner's responsibility to use reasonable prudent care to minimize foreseeable secondary damage, such as a delaminated floor, stained upholstery, carpeting or drapes.

....5. Overload.

The Airstream trailer is engineered to properly handle any normal load with an overload factor added. Load distribution has a definite effect upon the towing characteristics and attitudes of the trailer. Level hitch installations are a necessity and very important on a tandem axle trailer. There are limits to the amount of load that can be safely transported depending upon speed and road conditions and reasonable cause to believe these factors have been exceeded could void the Airstream warranty.
